Methodology

- 1,000 residents of the City of Calgary were surveyed through the Trend Research Online Panel between October 1 and 8, 2025, under the direction of Janet Brown Opinion Research.
- Quotas were set for age, gender, and city quadrant. Minimal weighting was applied to match Statistics Canada population data.
- As a non-probability online survey, a margin of error does not apply. However, the margin of error for a comparable probability sample would be +/-3.1 percentage points, 19 times out of 20.

Candidates Calgarians are Considering for Mayor

The entries along the diagonal show the percentage of Calgarians considering voting for a candidate (calculated using only those Calgarians who are considering at least one candidate, or n=697). The other entries show the proportion considering either of the two candidates that form the intersection of that cell. For example, 40% of Calgarians are considering voting for Jeromy Farkas (either solely or alongside other candidates), while 12% are considering either Jeromy Farkas or Sonya Sharp, and 7% are considering either Jeromy Farkas o Brian Theissen.

The column to the right of the table shows vote intention for each candidate (out of decided and leaning voters only).

Farkas	40%					27%
Sharp	12%	34%				23%
Gondek	8%	4%	32%			23%
Davison	12%	11%	5%	29%		16%
Theissen	7%	4%	9%	7%	20%	8%
	Farkas	Sharp	Gondek	Davison	Theissen	Vote Intention

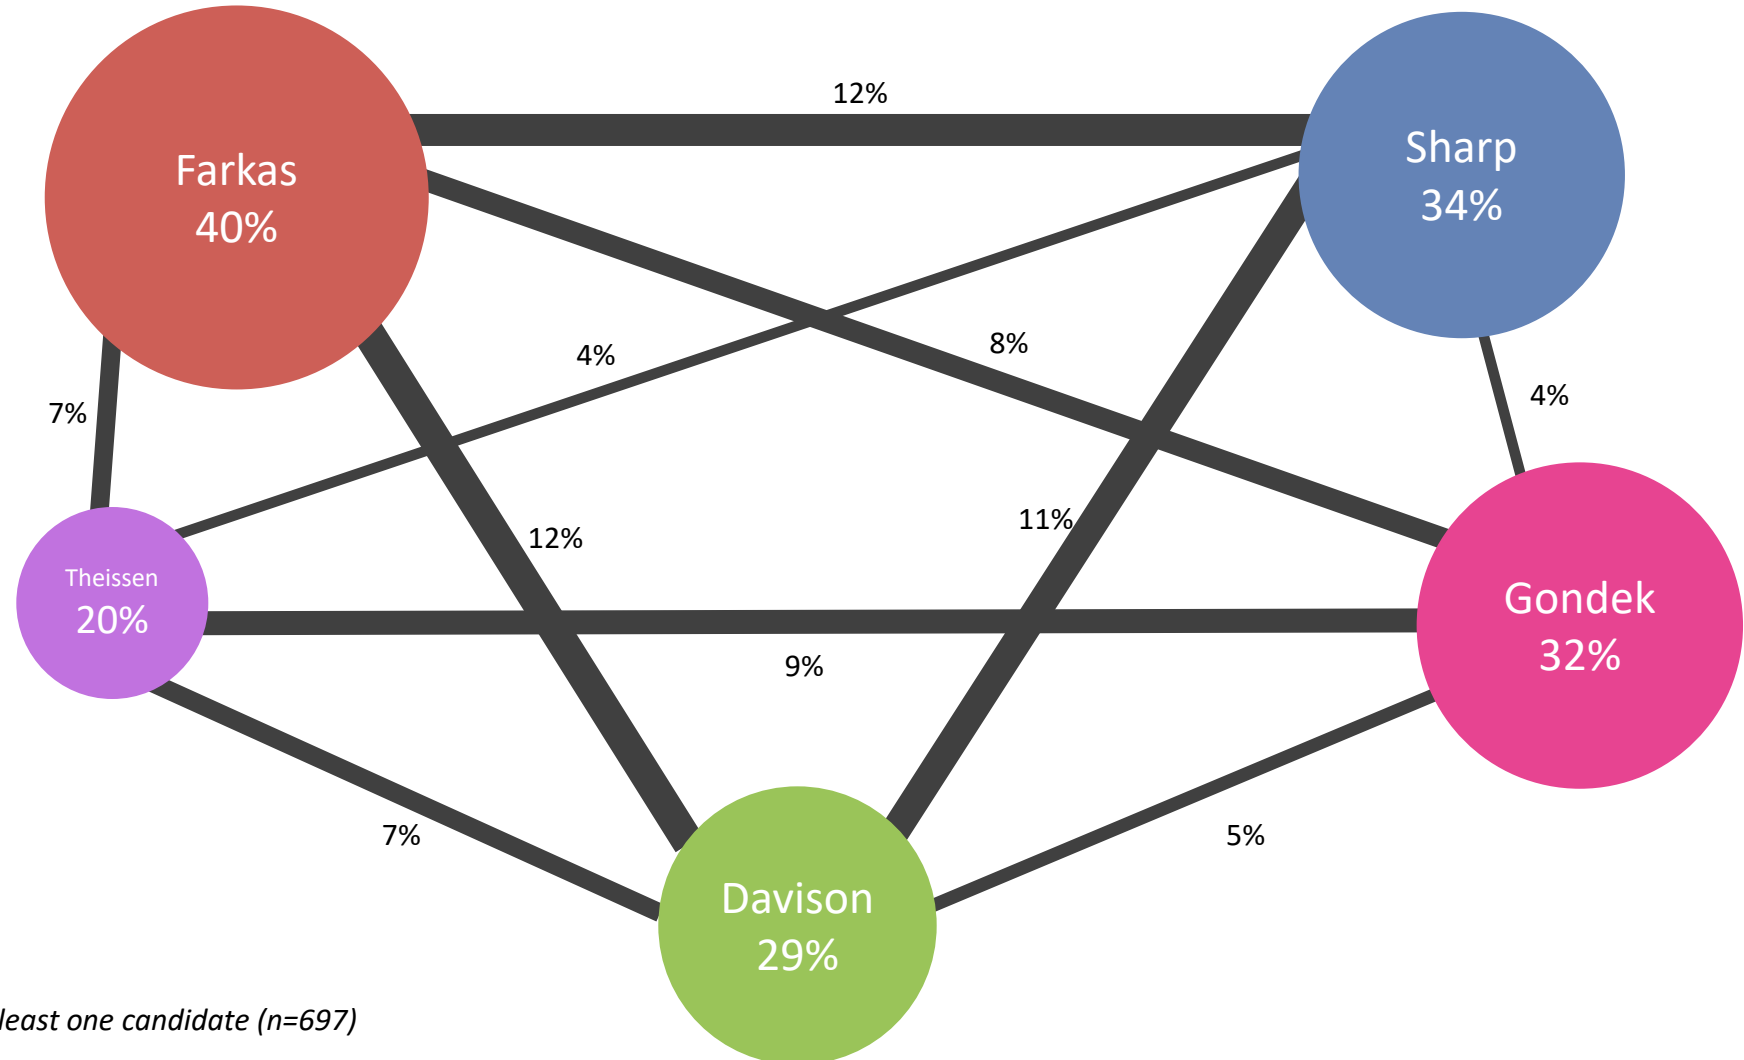

There are currently nine people running for mayor of Calgary. Please indicate whether you have or have not heard of each of these candidates.
Is this a candidate you would consider voting for?
If the municipal election were held today, which mayoralty candidate would you vote for?
(If not sure) Even though you have not yet made up your mind, is there nevertheless a candidate you might be inclined to support?

Candidates Calgarians are Considering for Mayor

The percentages inside the circles are the proportion of Calgarians considering voting for that candidate (either solely or in conjunction with other candidates).

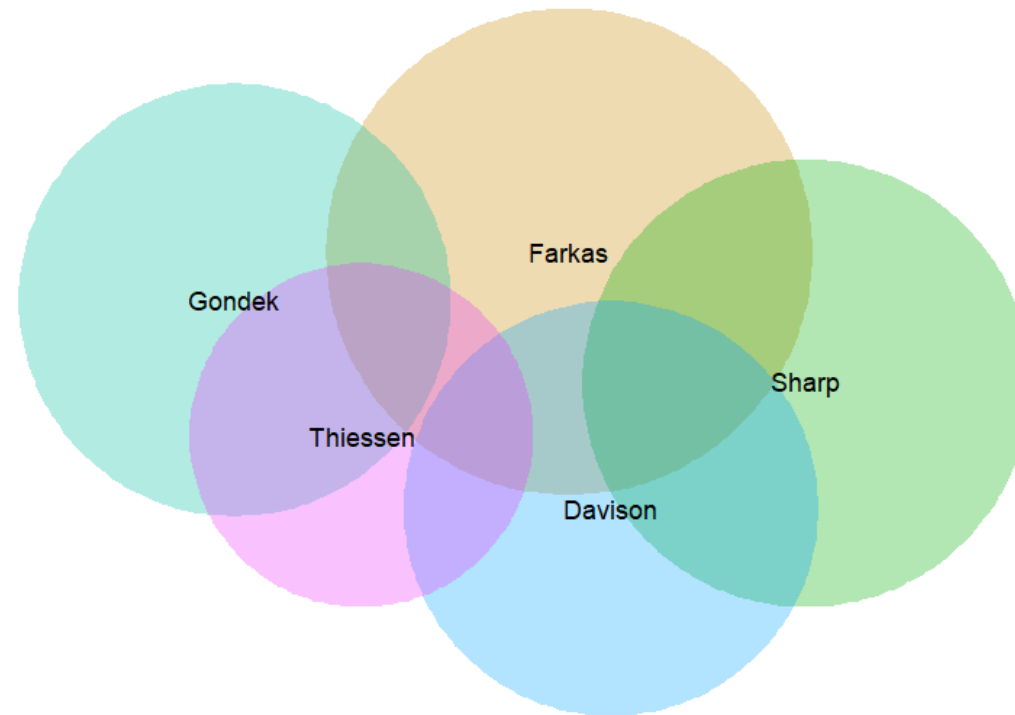

The percentages beside the lines are the proportion of Calgarians considering voting for either of the two candidates joined by those lines.

Note, because this question allow multiple mentions, the percentages do not add up to 100%.

Based on Calgarians who are considering at least one candidate (n=697)

Q2. Calgary city council recently brought in significant updates to local zoning bylaws. The changes allow small, multi-family developments, such as townhomes and rowhouses, to be built on most residential lots in the city without going through a rezoning process.
